Telluride Faculty Fellowship: Application for Fall 2015 and Winter 2016

Telluride House is a self-governing scholarship house for undergraduate and graduate students at the University of Michigan, including selected visiting faculty at UM as a way to enrich its communal life. It is a lively democratic community dedicated to intellectual inquiry, self-governance, and public service. For more information on the Telluride House, please visit www.telluride-house.com, and www.tellurideassociation.org to learn more about the Telluride Association.

At the Telluride House, Faculty Fellows live in suites that can easily accommodate spouses and children. As part of their fellowship, Faculty Fellows are required to give one hour-long academic talk per semester on a subject in their field. In addition, Faculty Fellows are encouraged to involve themselves in the intellectual and collegial life of the House. Past Fellows have enjoyed informal dinner conversations with students, worked on public service projects with housemembers, and implemented interactive initiatives such as workshops, film series, and reading groups.

This application is for the fall semester of 2015 and/or the winter semester of 2016. Fellows may move in during late August or early September, 2015 for fall term and early January 2016 for winter term. Requests for special accommodations will be considered. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis.
